

Higher Knowledge

Young people mostly believe that

They're brand new

Without responsibility to the past.

...Over

Nothing could be less true

Primed and suited for the future

They are the past!

Re-cycled to view

Continued anew

A chance to re-do.

Boiling the cauldron of devil stew

Stoking the fire of ancient shame

Serving the god they dare not name.

Continuing the game

Recycling the pain

Never figuring the master's name.

Young people are carriers of the past;

A lack of ease

Re-introduced - like bullets to a well worn gun.

A crazy scheme

A Pied Piper dream

Things are not as they seem!

Honor the Child

Whoso shall offend one of these little ones, it were better that a millstone were hanged around his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

Matthew 18:6

The most basic requirement of involvement is the rationalization of procreation but in the course of a common life the question of involving rarely becomes an issue. We simply do not discuss an alternative to evolution nor are we trained to enquire. The routine is firmly set as parents watch over and encourage their children to follow in their footsteps without ever a question as to the worthiness of this activity. All are conditioned to increase and multiply. But, babies do not want to be born whereupon to inherit the burdens we refuse to carry. It is better that we should accept responsibility and do the work ourselves. The work is to gather back to the state of awareness where we become as children and thereby 'enter the kingdom'. We are the children we must bring into the world but returning to an aware childhood requires work that involves putting together the information that will inform and direct us to become who we are in reality. We must become involved with our recovery and stop passing the responsibility on to children

Of all things, not to have been born is the sweetest state.

Philo (20 BC)

By Tom Kitt (TIME...The Physics of Immortality)